The evidence of manuscripts

I suggest that we should hold another meeting of this seminar, to be held on Saturday, 16 December, beginning at 11.0 o'clock a.m.

The subject will be: Legal manuscripts, their make-up and contents. From The Parker Library it will be possible to look at MS 173 (Parker Chronicle and Laws), 383 (miscellaneous legal manuscript containing several unique legal texts) 201 (a miscellany, containing among other things, some laws), 265 (again a miscellany with some laws). It will also be possible to look at the facsimile of Textus Roffensis if needed. We hope that the following will speak or intervene: Chris Fell, Carol Hough, Patrick Wormald. We hope by choosing this topic to interest those whose concern is with texts as well as those who are primarily interested in manuscript make-up and lay-out.

To let us know who we may expect, could you please fill out the form at the bottom of this page and let me have it as soon as possible.

R.I.P.

To: Wilson, Fell, Budny, Hadgraft, Wormald, Sharpe, Webster, Parsons, Lowe, Hough, Gem. Graham.
